Production, use, and fate of all plastics ever made

The inherent specificity and electrochemical reversibility of enzymes poise them as the biorecognition element of choice for a wide range of metabolites. To use enzymes efficiently in biosensors, the redox centers of the protein should have good electrical communication with the transducing electrode, which requires either the use of mediators or tedious biofunctionalization approaches.

Subdisciplines. This science comprises three main sub-disciplines: . Polymer chemistry or macromolecular chemistry is concerned with the chemical synthesis and chemical properties of polymers.; Polymer physics is concerned with the bulk properties of polymer materials and engineering applications.; Polymer characterization is concerned with the analysis of chemical structure, morphology, and ...

American Journal of Polymer Science and Technology (AJPST) will publish peer-reviewed open access English language articles that bridge the gap between research and patenting of an invention, targeting a broad audience of academic and industrial researchers, as well as the increasingly important world of scientists and engineers at start-up companies.

Wallace Carothers Begins Polymer Research at DuPont. In late 1926, Charles M. A. Stine, director of DuPont's chemical department in Wilmington, Delaware, convinced the company's executive committee to establish a continuing program in fundamental research.

The theory of thermoresponsive polymer (similarly, microgels) begins in the 1940's with work from Flory and Huggins who both independently produced similar theoretical expectations for polymer in solution with varying temperature.
